Welcome to the inaugural issue of the Meyer & Meyer newsletter. We decided to launch the publication for several reasons. First, it's the latest enhancement to our customer service focus. We've always stressed the importance of communication with our customers - our friends - and this is a handy way for us to share valuable information that may slip by because of our busy work schedules and many activities at home.

Also, this is such an exciting time in construction, and we want to keep you informed about the many new technological developments we've adopted - and will continue to adopt - to make your home-building experience simpler, greener, more convenient and more gratifying.

And finally, we admit to having mixed feelings when we complete your project. Needless to say, we're thrilled to see you move into the home that you eagerly watched become a reality. But we also miss our interactions with past customers and business associates. So this is our way to remain connected, and I encourage you to drop us a line now and again to let us know how you're doing.

Best wishes for a rejuvenating springtime.

Sincerely,

Bob Kostelny

Simplifying Your Life by Simplifying the Selection Process

When you heard that it was time to start making the selections that would transform your construction project into your home, did you anticipate the complexity of the task? Probably not.

With that in mind, Meyer & Meyer is automating the selection process, allowing customers to make choices online - anywhere at any time. We've partnered with SelectionWare, the leading home-building software, to customize a program to provide you with all the tools to coordinate your countertops with your cabinet finishes, your master bath faucets with your door hardware - the possibilities are endless by just flipping through our online gallery. You can take control by making your selections according to your budget and your availability. The automated process lets you make informed decisions and keeps your project on schedule by enabling you to make timely selections when your window of opportunity is open.

Our SelectionWare experience has been quite positive, as evidenced by our enthusiastic comment about it in the April '08 Professional Builder publication. (Read SelectionWare article.)

So if you wake up in the middle of the night with a brilliant idea for the family room, just put on your slippers and log in to your Meyer & Meyer project account!

Envision Your Dream

Meyer & Meyer is excited to announce its new subsidiary, Envision Kitchen & Bath. Consistent with our emphasis on customer service, Envision allows our customers to design their kitchens, baths and closets in our brand-new showroom.

Offering Omega, Bertch and Wood-Mode cabinets, Envision also provides you with dimensioned drawings and detailed computerized renderings using Fusion software to make your vision a reality. We also provide the services of a design professional as well as access to closet and lighting systems, and a wide range of decorative hardware options. Visit www.envisionkb.com for more information.
